Option 1
Move by yourself

Option 2
Use our switching service

How to move to Bank of Ireland by yourself

- ▶ Transfer some money into your new account
Remember to leave enough money in your old account to cover any outgoings or payments that are due.
- ▶ Give your new bank details to anyone who pays you
This includes your customers and anyone else who pays you regularly.
- ▶ List all of your regular payments
Grab a recent statement and make a list of all regular payments from your old bank account. For example, rent, rates and lease payments.
- ▶ Set up Standing Orders and payees
Set up standing orders and payees on your new account – it's easy through the Bank of Ireland Mobile App or Business Online.
- ▶ Change any outgoing payments made by Direct Debit or debit card
Update your details for any outgoing payments made by Direct Debit or debit card, like memberships and subscriptions.
- ▶ Bring your balance to zero and close your old account (if you want).

Use our Switching Service

Lots of people moving to Bank of Ireland let us do the work, using the formal bank-to-bank moving process. To do this, simply fill out the account transfer form (which you'll find in our Switching Pack) and drop it to us at any branch.

This form will let us contact your old bank and request the move. We'll set up your standing orders and your old bank will notify your Direct Debit Originators of your new bank details. However, we do recommend also contacting your Direct Debit Originators to let them know that your bank details will be changing.

The moving process takes 10 working days, during which time you won't be able to use your old bank account.

Important Information for Limited Companies

Companies incorporated in Ireland are required to have their beneficial ownership details on the Register of Beneficial Owners ("RBO") before proceeding to a Business Current Account ("BCA") application.

Individuals who own 25% + 1 share are classified as beneficial owners with RBO. It is important that your company details match the RBO and CRO in advance of commencing your Business Current Account application, to avoid unnecessary delays in opening your account.

The RBO was established under Anti-Money Laundering legislation (4AMLD), not company law, and is an additional requirement to the Companies Registration Office ("CRO").

Bank of Ireland is regulated by the Central Bank of Ireland.
